I Have A Dream

Martin Luther King Jr. is one of the greatest people who have ever lived. He was the strongest and most brave person I have ever heard of. He definitely made a huge impact on my life. Martin was fighting to have everyone to be treated the same. He wanted every race to have the same power. He had a dream where people can go to the same school as others. He wanted people to drink from the same water fountain. He wanted people to have the same respect for everyone. Without him life would be very different.

Martin means to me a person who has changed life completely. I wouldn't have many friends that I have without him. Martin Luther King Jr. is someone who I look up to. My dad is from South Africa along with my grandparents. But they moved to Connecticut because they didn't want my dad and my two aunts to be raised in such a cruel land. They moved because of apartheid. My grandparents moved because they wanted a place of free land. They wanted a place where there was no segregation of race and where everyone was equal.

I have many dreams. One of my dreams is that there will be no poverty. I also dream that there will be no crime. I want there to be no crime along with nobody having to deal with being homeless. I wish that homeless people can just get jobs and get off the streets so they don't get involved in bad things. Another dream is also to have answers to every medical question. Martin Luther King Jr. was a very important part of history. Without Martin's dream, my grandparents and my dad might be living in another country.
