

Name: Markayla Johnson

Grade: 5

School: Jumoke Academy Honors at the Hartford Conservatory

1st Congressional District

Martin Luther King Jr. was a great man. I look up to him. He made a remarkable act and he fought for civil rights. Martin Luther Jr.'s goal and dream was that everyone has equal rights, including African Americans. The act of 1949 banned discrimination in all schools and public places. He went to Morehouse College.

A quote that inspired me was, "I have a dream that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by their skin color but by the content of their character"-Martin Luther King Jr. This quote reminds me that no matter what career path I choose, it is important to view people for who they truly are, rather than making judgments based on external factors such as their skin color or appearance. It inspires me to pursue medicine with a compassionate heart, treating every patient with dignity and respect, regardless of their background.

Martin Luther King Jr. fought for civil rights and equality for African Americans. He believed that everyone, regardless of their race or ethnicity, deserved to be treated fairly and have the same opportunities. This is something that deeply resonates with me as a young girl growing up in a diverse society. It reminds me that I should not only strive to achieve my dreams but also work towards creating a world where everyone has equal opportunities to pursue their dreams, regardless of their race, gender, or social status. Martin Luther King Jr.'s dedication to justice and equality has paved the way for many advancements in our society. His tireless efforts have allowed people like me to dream big and believe that we can make a difference in the world. He has shown me that one person can indeed change the world and that my dreams of becoming a doctor can be realized if I work hard and stay committed to my goals. In conclusion, Martin Luther King Jr. is a true inspiration to me. His fight for civil rights and determination to create an equal and just society has given me hope and confidence in pursuing my dreams. I want to follow in his footsteps and make a positive impact on the world, just like he did. I believe that I can become the doctor I aspire to be and make a difference in the lives of others.